MEMORANDUM

FROM THE DESK OF:

Robert M. Scully

TO: Our Customers

DATE: August 1959

Bob Scully in his office at "Orchidglade"

Another year has rolled around,
and we proudly present our

1959-60 Wholesale Catalog of Fine Ornamental Foliage Plants. I hope that you will take a few minutes to browse through its pages—compare prices and quality—and realize the potential possibilities of increasing your profits by providing your customers with the foliage plants they are seeking.

Today's Modern Homes DEMAND foliage plants—all of the magazines feature foliage plants in their colorful advertising creations—a demand which the Florist should not ignore. With the demand there, why not take advantage of it? Many of the more progressive florists have realized their position and, by STOCKING a creditable amount of QUALITY Ornamentals, have made a fine profit! "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush;" it's good business to cater to the impulsive buyer by keeping an assortment of plants for every need displayed in your shop!

JONES & SCULLY, INC. has supplied Foliage Plants to the Trade for 14 years—we were one of Florida's first firms to grow Indoor plants—and it is still our policy to grow only those items which will do WELL used as interior decoration. Thanks to you and your valued orders, we continue to enjoy an expanding business.

Although we cannot claim to be the LARGEST grower of foliage plants in Florida, we can truthfully say that none of our competitors grow a wider variety of really QUALITY plants.

JONES & SCULLY'S NURSERY is "Where you buy with confidence."

PRECIOUS PLANTS

Designed with the Connoisseur in mind.

Gerry Sparks in her studio.

Unique, Versatile, Porous Clay Pots in which to grow and display prized plants attractively.

HANDCRAFTED • SIGNATURED • ORIGINALS***

Priced from $2 to $15 each

Pictures on pages 28 and 29

*Each of these decorative pots for growing is an Original—designed under our direction—by three of Miami's outstanding artists: Juanita May, Gerry Sparks and Helen Steele. These talented ceramists, plant hobbyists themselves, have all been recognized in their field and have received many awards for their works.

You will agree that certain plants demand special containers to show plant and flower to the best advantage; these pots are the ideal answer. They are of porous clay with drainage holes—either of the conventional type or worked into the design. And, the longer they are in use, the more beautiful they become.

Many other plants are well-suited for growing in the various pot styles other than the types we suggest. You be the judge, but do select some of these for your favorite plants. Pictured on pages 28 and 29 are designs which may be ordered; many other styles are available from our office display. These PRECIOUS POTS make wonderful gifts!

DRACAENA GRACILIS

One of the finest and most decorative, modern type plants that we have had the pleasure of introducing to the florist trade. The unique and artistic habit of the stems lend themselves to modern interiors. This plant was introduced into this country many years ago by the Spanish at the southern-most city of the United States — Key West.

Not until recently have we had sufficient stock to offer in large sizes. Each plant grown is different in shape and we can offer duplicates only in the straight-stem plants. This plant has proven itself ideal for interior decoration where light intensity is low, but will also stand full sun. We know of few plants that can offer these qualities.

The photographs on these pages are only an indication of shapes and sizes.

Potting Materials:

During the past few years, several new potting materials have found a place in orchid culture. OSMUNDA has been the proven potting material and has been used universally—almost exclusively—during the past fifty years. We do not feel that the new potting materials used today—Fir Bark or Tree Fern—are superior to Osmunda except perhaps for certain genera under certain climatic conditions. If one is not having success with the culture of a given genera, then it would be wise to try a different potting media.

FIR BARK and TREE FERN are certainly much easier to pot with than Osmunda, and this fact, alone, will win them many users. Use of these two potting media makes it possible to keep up with the potting and leaves more free time to enjoy one's collection.

In the fir bark and tree fern categories, we believe that VITA-BARK and MEXI-FERN are the two best products of their kind on the market today—far superior to the competitive products.

VITA-BARK

VITA-BARK should be moistened before using because it is easier to handle and will respond much better to watering after potting. We recommend the removal of all the Osmunda fiber from orchid roots before potting in VITA-BARK. Repotting in VITA-BARK plants which have been in bark is a simple operation because the old bark can be shaken from the orchid roots without damaging them; with osmunda, there is no alternative but to pull the old fiber off the roots while exercising great care not to damage them.

This label is larger in size than others on the market, which allows ample space for such information.

FERTILIZING

VITA-BARK and MEXI-FERN must be fertilized to insure good plant growth. Most authorities and experienced growers agree that nitrogen is needed to a greater extent than the other elements which are used in smaller quantities. We recommend the use of KAPCO 30-10-10 Fertilizer. The frequency of fertilizing depends on the season and the plant in question.

We have found a stock solution of 12 oz. of 30-10-10 to 3 gallons of water dispensed through a HOZON (which dilutes the concentrate 1 to 15) to be satisfactory. For a limited number of plants, 30-10-10 may be used 1 oz. to 4 gallons of water and watered directly on the potting media.
